

The residents of Wisconsin fought long and hard to pass the laws that protect the sanctity of their homes against unwanted telephone intrusions. We can't go backwards just to benefit the banking industry. Families don't want banks to intrude on their space any more than banks would want families to drop off all of their children so that they can hang out at the bank!